

Poetry of Things

a small collection of dialogs
with ordinary things

by Paetrick Schmidt

BURNING

AUGUST SUN

YOU WILL MELT

THE ASPHALT

Installation with a white paint marker, 2009

A photograph of a grassy lawn with a small pile of melting snow in the foreground. In the background, there is a long, low building with several windows. The text is overlaid on the image.

»As the most powerful snowman across the city, i was photographed every day by dozens of people. Also by a photographer for the cover of a local newspaper. In a few minutes, i finally seeping into the lawn.«

Beladen - Entladen

*»A unlucky men drank from this glass a deadly poison mixture.
Purged, it is now back safely useable.«*

engraving on glass, 2010

„Holzmedaillen“
Mdf, Draht, Wäscheleine, 2010

»A unlucky men...«

gallery installation, 2010

SUN
SNOWFLAKE
SUNGLASSES
SUNBEAM

och, wie oft noch muß ich Pinsel auswaschen?

och, how many times i have to wash
my paint brushes again?

Snow pillor discussion session. From left to right:
Mr. Brömmel, Edward Sieffenstein, Marlies Paradies, Dieter Lorbeer, Marcel Mafia, Joe Snowflake on a Cake, Claudia S., Wolfgang Seppelfricke

1. Let's talk about Sex
2. Und was verdienst Du so?
3. Liquid Poison Suicide

engravings on glass, 2010

IKARUS
↓

smashed fly and permanent marker
on windowglass, 2010